Are you a mom looking to meet other moms who are looking to get active and maybe, just maybe, have adult conversations during the day?

seeMOMMYrun is a non-profit that is dedicated to providing an online community for moms to meet other moms. Non-profit means that registration is free, membership is free and leading a group is free. It's not just about running, there are walking groups too.

seeMommyrun's mission is to help moms in every community, no matter their social status, cultural background, or income level build lifelong social networks, maintain active lifestyles and be positive role models for their families and friends. If you don't see a group in your area, you can start one (at no cost of course). This is a great tool for new moms and professional moms alike to get out and start moving. Bring your kids, or don't, it's totally up to you! Check out the seeMommyrun website to register and join (or start) a running (or walking) group near you.

I need to look into this. This is a great idea. I can barley run without a stroller. But I guess the stroller would be something to lean on.
